Collins, accidentally killed in the Ana-were substantially the same as have already been published. A verdict of accidental death was returned and the company exonerated from blame.

One of Ella's Pets.

BUTTE, Sept. 7.—Ella Hamilton, a siren who lures her victims into a den in Whitechapel alley over which she presides, was arraigned in the police court this morning on a charge of grand larceny. The complaint was filed by John Artesano and it told the old story. John was susceptible and heeded the invitation of Ella to "come in, pet," and when he left the dive he found himself poorer by $210. The amount was taken out of one of his pocket-ets by the woman while she was seated on his knee. Siple pleaded not guilty and was held in bonds to appear for preliminary examination.

TO HANG OR NOT TO HANG

Men Who Will Be Jurors in the Cunningham Murder Case.

PRICE BEFORE THE COURT

After Much Trouble Jurymen Are Sworn In—Other Matters
Before the District Court.

BUTTE, Sept. 7.—The Price murder case was resumed this morning with an effort to secure a jury. H. H. Horst was the first one called from the special venire and said he had such decided opinions that it would require considerable evidence to remove his bias, and he was excused. R. Cobban took Mr. Horst's place and was acceptable to both sides, and replied to O'Donnell's question that he did not believe in the Bible theory of a life for a life and an eye for an eye. On the defense's second peremptory challenge Richard James was excused and C. W.
Goodale was called. He had an opinion that could not be changed by evidence and he was permitted to step aside.
Charles Heilbrunner was the next victim.
He had an opinion at one time, but has none now in answer to a question from O'Donnell said that he never belonged to a vigilance committee. J. W. Barnaman was excused by the state and Martin Pol-land took the vacant place in the box, but he was not a full citizen, although he did jury service before, and was excused.
Frank Stevens proved an acceptable juror, and on the third challenge the defense let Mr. Cobban out.

R. Powell was called and examined.
He had some doubts whether he would hang a man for any crime, and was opposed to capital punishment, but he changed his mind on further examination and was permitted to remain in the box.
On the fourth peremptory challenge the defense excused Mr. Stevens, and Tim Sibley and William Keating were called and both let off because they were deaf. William Redick was acceptable and then the state challenged Powell, the man with a doubtful opinion.

Colonel Jencks said he was raised among Quakers and was opposed to hanging a man for any crime, and he was excused. Thomas Hancock was not a full citizen and was therefore let off. J. J.
Strong had an opinion that disqualified him from holding his seat in the box and William Holtenhoff took his place, and answered questions satisfactorily. He doubted ever having belonged to a vigilance committee.

The defense excused Mr. Kemper and John Reagan was let off by agreement owing to sickness in his family. William Stewart was excused on account of his opinion and J. O. Jones was called, but he was opposed to capital punishment.
Phillip Roberts was the next man, but his opinion was so much for him and Alex Rowe was called to take his place, but was excused by the defense on its sixth peremptory challenge.

Thomas Rowan, the next man, said he had an opinion, and was challenged for cause by the state, but resisted by the defense. The court, however, requested Mr.
Rowan to step aside, and the clerk announced that the special venire had again been exhausted.

Another venire was ordered issued for 30 additional names, made returnable at 2 o'clock, which hour the court adjourned.
George Shale was called and proved the only man yet examined who had not heard of the case before. The county attorney then asked him if he had any conscientious scruples and compunctions of conscience about capital punishment.
The juror didn't know what the attorney was talking about and answered that he didn't know, but when O'Donnell plainly asked him if he was opposed to hanging a man he replied in the negative.
The state challenged Shale and the court then asked him if he had any conscientious scruples against hanging a man and he replied yes and was excused.

W. H. Palmer was summoned and O'Donnell got in his work on him with questions as to his belief in the Bible doctrine about a life for a life, an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth, or whether he believed in the modern civilization, as the chancellor termed it, in which a man could commit a legal and justified murder.
The chancellor also took a delight in asking all jurors whether they believed anything the newspapers say. Most of them said they did, but the chancellor tried to convey the idea that he did not. Mr.
Palmer was passed, but when the state exercised its fourth peremptory challenge he was excused.

P. A. Ganser was the next juror called.
He knew very little of the affair and had no conscientious scruples as to capital punishment. He also said that he never belonged to a vigilance committee, and was accepted. On the seventh challenge of the defense C. S. Paxson was excused and G. F. Lyman took his place. Mr.
Lyman stated that he had been in business with Cunningham, the murdered man, and had been friendly with him, but not withstanding his feelings and opinions he could return a fair and impartial verdict according to the evidence.

"Do you believe in the general principles of Christianity?" asked the chancelor.

Mr. Baldwin objected to O'Donnell's questions, and the court sustained the objection, saying that it made no difference whether a juror believed in Christianity at all. Lyman, however, was excused on the eighth challenge of the defense.

Frank Holman took a place in the jury box and stated that at the time of the murder he was sick in bed and did not read the newspapers; knew nothing about the guilt or innocence of Price; believed in capital punishment and never belonged to a vigilance committee. He was passed and the state on the fifth and last peremptory challenge excused Ed Williams, whose place was taken by George Wright, a young man with an opinion and a bias, but he said he could render an impartial verdict notwithstanding, and then he asked to be excused on account of business affairs, and he was let off.

When the defense exercised its next peremptory challenge, P. A. Ganser was excused and F. E. Irvin called. He was let off by O'Donnell's last challenge.

J. Hamilton was summoned and said he did not know Price, but had considerable business transactions with Cunningham, the murdered man. Hamilton had read the papers, and he also had an opinion from the first, but he now and then would have it, and not enough testimony could be introduced to change it. Neither was he opposed to hanging a man. He was excused.

G. Steinhilber had an opinion and he was also opposed to capital punishment, and therefore was not needed on the jury.

By consent of the attorney, D. Goldberg was let off for business reasons. Thomas Gray was the last man called and answered all questions satisfactorily.
The challenges having been exhausted the jury was completed just as the hour of adjournment of the second day arrived.

The jury as sworn and which will try Price for his life is composed of J. J. Allen, A. W. Lord, H. J. Kerr, Harry Sheards, James Patten, Martin Stephens, Thomas

Gray, Charles Heilbrunner, William Holtenhoff, William Reckaseck, Frank Holman, C. E. Pierce.

When the jury had been sworn A. W.
Lord stated to the court that he is suffering from heart disease, and was making preparations to leave the country when he was summoned as a juror. He wanted to get off but the court said his excuse came too late, and he would have to stick it out. The jury was given in charge of Bailliff Hare, who was warned by the court that under no circumstances must he allow anyone to communicate with any member of the jury, and the jury was also warned to talk to no one upon the pain of punishment for contempt. When the jurors understood that they would have to remain locked up until a verdict is finally reached in the case, there was a general kick but to no effect. The taking of the testimony will commence to-morrow and the case will probably take up all of this week and the greater part of next week.

Divorce Decrees.

Referee Carroll in the divorce case of Jennie McCarty against John McCarty filed his report this morning and in accordance with a decree was entered in favor of the plaintiff. She testified that she was married to her husband June 17, 1887, in Leadville, but that there were no children.
For the last two years her husband has been constantly in the habit of calling her vile and abusive names, and threatened her with personal violence. In December, 1890, while living at Helena, he struck her with his fists in the face and over the head with a loaded cane, caught her by the throat and choked her, blacking her eyes, kicked her on her head and body, and on a great many occasions between that date and September 1, 1891, he struck, kicked her and threatened to kill her, so that she has been afraid to live with him. For more than two years he has refused to support her, although able to do so, and when she asked him for money or food he would tell her to go to Helena. She was compelled to support herself by keeping a boarding house, although unwell and scarcely able to work. On September 15, 1891, he left the state and went to South America. She has acquired a third interest in the Maggie quartz lode in Colorado, which was awarded her by the decree.
Marshall Williams supported Mrs. Mc-Carty's testimony.

Howard Paschal, referee in the case of Annie M. Pulver against George A. Pul-ver, also made his report. The plaintiff testified that she is 28 years old and was married to her husband at Lemhi, Idaho, Oct. 21, 1888, and is the mother of one child, 2½ years old. Her husband deserted her and has since remained absent and failed to provide for his wife and child. Mrs. Pulver was granted a divorce and the custody of her child.

LOOKS LIKE FOUL PLAY.

Inquiry Into the Cause of the Death of Chris Frankhausen.

BUTTE, Sept. 7.—An inquest into the manner in which Chris Frankhausen came to his death was begun yesterday afternoon by Acting Coroner Muldoon.
Frankhausen died at the poor house last Saturday from the result of injuries to his head sustained in an unknown manner.
The deceased was brought to the poor house last Thursday by a man named Hansen, who said that he had found him lying in a bed a week last Sunday bleeding profusely from a wound in the head.
Hansen said that when he found Frankhausen he asked him how he had received his injuries and that Frankhausen had said that somebody had kicked him. Before he received any medical treatment Frankhausen was suffering with erysipelas.
Hansen also said that a week ago last Saturday morning Frankhausen had left the ranch and was not seen again until the following morning at about 3 o'clock when he was found in bed as already stated, suffering from a wound in the head. Mrs. Leonard and Blackburn, who attended Frankhausen, said that they found a wound about one and a half inches long at the base of the brain. The absence of sand or gravel in the wound, in the opinion of the doctors, was evidence that the wound was the result of a blow rather than a fall.

In view of the suspicious circumstances connected with the affair it was deemed best to adjourn the inquest at this point until next Thursday in order that more testimony may be obtained.

TWO BUM PUGILISTS.

"Hobo" McGinnis and "Chick" Rodgers booked at the Jail as Vags.

BUTTE, Sept. 7.—Since pugilism is again being tolerated in the city, the town is filling up with a gang of the toughest and most disreputable hoodlums that have been here in a long time. They all pose as prize fighters, but in reality are nothing more than bums and vags who make a pretense of being fighters for the opportunities it gives them of beating a living.
Chief Gray says that while he does not propose to interfere with the genuine prize fighters, he will make it so warm for all things and played out fighters that they will be glad to leave Butte for the benefit of the citizens generally.

Last night "Chick" Rodgers and "Hobo" McGinnis were arrested and booked as vagrants. Both have made one or two bum fights here recently. McGinnis was arrested by Officer Wilson, but made his escape before he could be taken to the station and gave the officer a lively chase over a couple of blocks. Chief Gray and Officer Dwyer joined in the chase, and after several shots were fired McGinnis was caught at the corner of Arizona and Wyoming streets. When arraigned in police court this morning he pleaded not guilty to the charge against him, and also entered a protest against being called "Hobo," saying that that was not his name.

Que Man Short.

BUTTE, Sept. 7.—Posted over the drop boxes in the postoffice is a notice written in a bold hand which reads as follows:
"All mails intended for early morning trains must be deposited in the office early enough to be worked by 6 p. m."

This means that unless matter is dropped into the office before 6 o'clock in the evening it will not be carried on any of the early mails the following morning. Until this order was posted a clerk was employed until late in the night in making up mails for the early trains, but it has been found necessary to employ this clerk in other cases, and as the government does not make an allowance for a night clerk, the postmaster is compelled to do the best he can with the limited force allowed him, and the patrons of the office and the public generally will have to put up with the inconvenience and derive what satisfaction they can in cursing the postmaster general.

TALK ABOUT POLITICS

Stay-at-Home Republicans' Views On the Ticket Put Up.

THEY SAY IT'S MIGHTY WEAK

Things Didn't Work According to the Way the Books Were Made Up—But One
Strong Man.

BUTTE, Sept. 7.—The stay-at-home republicans think the state ticket put up at Great Falls yesterday is mighty weak. It is understood that most of the ticket was fixed up in Butte before the convention.
But it is stated on the quiet that while Silver Bow county delegates intended to vote solidly for J. L. Rickards for governor, they expected the rest of the state to beat him, and then George W. Irvin would be presented for state treasurer.
But Rickards went in flying as Silver Bow county did not dare express too openly that it really did not want him nominated.
Republicans here all say that Mr. Rickards is a good man, but a weak candidate.

A great deal of interest is felt here as to what the Inter Mountain will say in regard to the nomination of Hartman for congress. The Inter Mountain has always professed to be down on the Northern Pacific road, and now it will be forced to accept that road's attorney as a candidate for congress. Mr. Hartman said he would resign as the railroad company's attorney in case he was elected to congress, but he didn't say he would resign on receiving the nomination. If he did, it would probably be like the resignation of Colonel Sanders as the Northern Pacific's attorney, when the position still remained in the office with which he was connected.
The feeling here is that Colonel Botkin is the only strong man on the ticket.

You have listened to something remarkable, if you have ever heard anybody say: "I like to take medicine. It comes under the head of necessities, but not of luxuries. It may be requisite, but it is not enjoyable. It is avoided, if it can be; if it can't be, it is endured with a grimace.
Don't subject yourself to the additional aggravation of taking medicine about which there is the least degree of uncertainty. That is the kind of an unpleasant complication which you will avoid, if you will give us the privilege of filling your prescriptions. We make a specialty of all kinds of toilet articles. Also sole agent of Montana for Theo. A. Kochs of Chicago, the largest barber supply house in the United States. All mail orders attended to promptly. Send us your orders.
